CPC - Customs Procedure Code
VAT - Value Added Tax

1. INTRODUCTION

When goods are imported into or exported from Swaziland they must be cleared through Customs. The clearance of goods is effected under a particular Procedure depending on how they are going to be used upon importation or exportation.

The Customs Procedures are classified according to international standards and best practice as contained in the World Customs Organization (WCO)'s Revised Kyoto Convention (RKC) and related instruments.

When the question “HOW MUST THE GOODS BE CLEARED?” is asked, it is referring to the type of Procedure - Customs Procedure Code (CPC) sometimes referred to as the Purpose Code - that has to be applied.

Simply put, a CPC identifies the procedure that has been requested on the Customs declaration and also identifies any previous procedure that may already have been applied to the goods concerned.

2. PURPOSE OF THE CUSTOMS PROCEDURE CODES

- a) To secure the highest degree of harmony and uniformity in Customs systems;
- b) To standardize, simplify and harmonize procedures and documents;
For example the use of the Single Administrative Document (SAD) for all Clearance Procedures eliminated the use of various forms that most Customs administrations were using;
- c) To facilitate the exchange of data and information;
- d) Basis for the control of movement of goods;
- e) Facilitates the collection of statistics;
- f) Facilitates assessment and collection of revenue;
- g) Facilitates the targeting of consignments for inspections and documentary check or other regulatory controls when using Selectivity function in ASYCUDA World.

3. STRUCTURE

The Customs Procedure Codes are based on a 4-digit code that can define any of the Customs Procedures that apply anywhere in the world. These procedures are aligned to the Models of Declarations. An additional 3-digit code (Additional Procedure Code (APC)) is created for national needs such as special rebates and other circumstances that only apply in a particular territory such as the Kingdom of Swaziland.

4. MODEL (TYPE) OF DECLARATION

The Model of Declaration is simply the type of declaration such as Permanent or Temporary Imports; Permanent or Temporary Exports; Re-exports; Inland or Through Transit; Warehousing etc.

Declaration types are made up of a 2-alpha character prefix and the first numeric digit of the Extended Procedure. These denote whether a declaration is an IMport, EXport or EXCise declaration. For example a Permanent Import declaration would be on an IM4 Model of Declaration.

Each individual declaration may have many lines or items each with different APCs. All the individual APCs must however fall within the same Model of Declaration. It is permissible, for example, to use APCs 4071 306 and 4071 000 on the same IM4 entry but not 4000 000 and 7100 000 as this fall under different Models of Declarations being IM4 and IM7 respectively.

5. EXTENDED PROCEDURE CODES (EPC)

The 4-numeric characters in an Extended Procedure constitute the Model of Declaration numeric identifier, Requested Procedure and the Previous Procedure.

The Model of Declaration is identified by the first numeric character also known as the General Procedure Code. The Requested Procedure is denoted by the first two numeric characters while the Previous Procedure is denoted by the 3rd and 4th numeric characters of the 4-digit Extended Procedure Code.

The Requested Procedure represents a specific Customs procedure that the goods concerned should be entered under.

The Previous Procedure represents any previous Customs Procedure that the goods concerned would have previously been entered under.

For example, when goods are entered for import into a Customs Warehouse they would be entered under Extended Procedure 7100; where the

Model of Declaration is identified by 7 which falls under the IM group;

Requested Procedure 71 denotes Warehousing; and

Previous Procedure 00 denotes that No Previous Procedure is applicable.

When those same goods are removed from the Warehouse for clearance for Permanent Import, the EPC 4071 would apply; where the

Model of Declaration is identified by 4 which falls under the IM group;

Requested Procedure 40 denotes Permanent Imports (Home Use); and

Previous Procedure 71 denotes that previously the goods had been cleared into a Customs Warehouse.

6. ADDITIONAL PROCEDURE CODES (APC)

The specific national needs such as Customs rebates and other circumstances are handled by the next set of three numeric characters known as the Additional Procedure Codes (APC) or National Procedure Codes.

All APCs have to be based on, and fully aligned to, the provisions of the national laws. For example, Industrial Rebates are provided for under Schedule 3 to the Customs and Excise Act, 1971. APCs for Industrial Rebates have been designed to align with the legal text of this Schedule.

Where the goods are entered for Permanent Import (Home Use) by a company authorized to claim Industrial Rebate then the full CPC can be 4000 303 and the duty otherwise payable is rebated as provided for in Rebate Item Code 303.00 of Schedule 3.

Where goods are re-imported after previously having been temporarily exported for repair and return they would be cleared under CPC 6023 409.

7. EFFECT OF ADDITIONAL PROCEDURE CODES

APC “000” is a Common Regime where all duties and taxes are payable unless the same duty or tax is charged at 0% (Free) in the Customs Tariff Handbook and, for instance VAT, is charged at a Standard Rate of 14%.

As such all APCs other than “000” have the effect of suppressing one tax type or the other. Thus where goods are entered under Schedule 3 Industrial Rebates an APC such as 303 would suppress the Customs Duty while VAT would remain payable at 14%.

For VAT Zero Rated Goods a separate APC would be applied to specifically suppress VAT on a particular product or circumstance while Customs Duty may be charged as provided in the Customs Tariff Handbook.

Some APCs have been configured to cater for both Customs Rebates and VAT Zero Rating or Exemptions.

8. LEGISLATION

It is therefore of paramount importance that all users of ASYCUDA be familiar with the provisions of national legislation supporting each APC.

9. LEGAL IMPLICATIONS

The choice of a CPC, and particularly an APC, should not be based solely on these Explanatory Notes. A declarant has to note that each procedure and APC has to be backed by provisions of legislation in Swaziland.

Accordingly, the selection of a CPC or an APC constitutes an integral part of a declaration to Customs in terms of Section 13 as read with Section 39 of the Customs and Excise Act, 1971 and other applicable legislation.

Declarants, importers and exporters are therefore advised to familiarize themselves with all provisions of legislation impacting on each CPC and specific APCs that they select in declaring goods on the SAD 500 declaration.
